Modern American Literature's summer reading will consist of

Rudolfo Anaya's Bless Me, Ultima

There will be a writing assignment on the first day of classes based on this work. You are to read and understand the arguments presented by Anaya.

This work exemplifies the types of literature we will be reading this year. Please remember that reading is about taking on another perspective to gain some insight on our own. It is meant to challenge you.

Happy reading!

Best,

Mister Scalora
